GERMAN INVITATION
DELAYED INDEFINITELY

Steps To Fulfill Dawes Plan and Restore Reich Economic Unity Announced.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

London, July 28.—(Associated Press.)—The conference circles tonight are awaiting American intervention at the experts' meeting this afternoon with having saved the conference from what threatened to develop into a crisis that possibly would have wrecked the parleys and seriously delayed the application of the Dawes plan to Europe's economic ills.

At the meeting of the experts prior to the plenary session, the debate between the French and British representatives on the issue which has been deadlocked a week had reached a very dangerous stage, when Colonel James A. Logan, American official observer, offered compromise suggestions which lessened the tension. As soon as he had finished his statement, which covered important points regarding American participation in the working of the Dawes plan, the French representative announced he believed that within 24 hours the French delegation could submit a formula which they considered would satisfy both the British experts and the Anglo-American bankers in its provisions for security for the international loan which Germany must float before the Dawes plan can be made effective.

German Invitation Delayed. Consequently, the experts' meeting adjourned until tomorrow morning.

The inability to reach a settlement today disrupted the program and the invitation, which it generally had been expected would be dispatched to Berlin tonight, requesting attendance of German representatives, has been delayed indefinitely.

The plenary session delegated the power of issuing the invitation to Germany to the prime ministers and the chief delegates to the conference, who can act whenever their technical work is completed, without awaiting approval by a plenary session. The delay resulting from today's session, it is believed, is likely to prolong the conference another fortnight.

Disappointment over the prospects of an extension of the negotiations was relieved by another announcement, Colonel Logan made to the experts.

HUNNICUTT MEETS
BROWN IN DEBATE
ON STATE ISSUES

Editor Charges Incumbent Has Used Position To Build Up Machine. Brown Defends Office

Sensational charges against Commissioner J. J. Brown and his administration of the department of agriculture, by G. F. Hunnicutt, editor of the Southern Cultivator, and a candidate to succeed Mr. Brown, and warm debate denied of all allegations by the commissioner featured a joint debate between the two candidates Monday night. The discussion was held in Hapeville, the hometown of the editor, and was attended by more than 500 men and women voters.

Assertions by Mr. Hunnicutt that his opponent is employing 600 or 700 employees, building up a great political machine, and "playing politics" instead of using his office to further the agricultural interests of the state were declared without foundation by the incumbent. At one point Brown turned to his opponent and shouted, "If you can prove a single statement I will resign and ask the governor to appoint you in my stead."

Mr. Hunnicutt stated that some of the charges made had been "reported to him" and "might have been exaggerated."

Brown Opens Debate. Commissioner Brown made the opening address, speaking 30 minutes. He was followed by Mr. Hunnicutt, who spoke little less than one hour, and then his opponent again spoke for 30 minutes. Friends of the candidates arranged the time limits of each speaker.

In opening the debate the commissioner made vigorous defense of his eight years in office, denying charges contained in newspaper attacks on him. He also referred to the "sensational" pamphlet being circulated by his opponent in which he is pictured as an octopus, a pawsuck and accused of having a stranglehold on the people of Georgia. The speaker was referring to a 4-page circular in which the commissioner is charged with employing "2000 inspectors and employees at an annual cost of $600,000," and in which he appears in a cartoon as a giant octopus with tentacles holding the state in his grip.

The speaker submitted a certified copy of an audit of the department of agriculture, signed by State Auditor.

SLAYERS AMUSED
AT ALIENISTS' REPORT

Chicago, July 28.—"So I'm a king and Nathan is my slave, is he? Well, it's all news to both of us."

This is what Richard Loeb, who, according to two defense alienists, exercised a weird control over Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., from childhood, said when newspaper men asked him to comment on the report of the physicians.

"I would say that the doctors put one over on us," Loeb continued. "I don't remember telling anybody anything like that."

And this was all Loeb would say. Leopold refused to comment, but grinned instead.

Asked about the report of two defense alienists, who told an amazing story of the supposed life histories of Leopold and Loeb, State's Attorney Crowe snorted and said:

"It's just piffle."

Chicago, July 28.—In a dramatic prelude to the introduction of the confessions of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb to the murder of Robert Franks, nine-year-old John Levinson, the boy whom the two murderers had originally picked as their victim, took the stand to add his little voice to the chorus of condemning evidence against the "intellectual killers." It was only a twist of fate which led John to take a walk with an instructor of the Harvard school the afternoon of May 21, when Loeb and Leopold were looking for a victim to lure into their rented death car. Otherwise the lad who so smilingly and Defendant Also Is Bound Over to State Courts. 43 New Cases Docketed on Monday.

One of the heaviest punishments meted out since the opening of the war on traffic law violators was imposed in recorder's court Monday when Robert Ekins, 26, of 54 Davis street, was sentenced to 30 days in the stockade, and bound over to the state courts under $500 bonds on charges of reckless driving and operating an automobile while intoxicated.

Seventeen drivers were fined in police court, fines aggregating $272. Ten were fined on charges of violating traffic ordinances, five for speeding, one for reckless driving, and one for not having a license tag.

43 New Cases Docketed.

Forty-three new cases were docketed Monday, 18 drivers being charged with violating traffic ordinances, nine with violating the dinner ordinance, eight with speeding, seven with reckless driving and one with driving a car while drunk.

In the only accident of the day, Geraldine Mize, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Mize, of 174 Washington street, was injured when struck by a truck in front of her home. No case was made against the driver, who claimed that the little girl darted in front of the truck from behind a car parked at the curb.

Washington, July 28.—Uniforms for prohibition agents who patrol lonely highways. That's the aim of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, which announces a campaign to have legislation enacted for this purpose.

"When a man is driving alone at night, and men in civilian clothes attempt to stop him, sometimes flourishing revolvers, the natural assumption is that they are bandits, and instinct tells the man to make a break," the association explains in a statement. Georgia Territory To Be Included in Park. Officials Intimate on Leaving State.

Clayton, Ga., July 28.—(Special.) Secretary of the Interior Hubert Work and H. W. Temple, member of congress from Pennsylvania, leaders of the commission of experts touring the southern Appalachian mountains for a site in which to locate a national park, today stated that a four-state park site with considerable Georgia territory possibly would be selected. This statement was made as the party began the journey to Highlands, N. C., through Dillard and the Nantahala reservation.

All members of the party praised the Georgia territory, which lies in the 6,000 square-mile area proposed for the national park. It was stated definitely before that the national park would be located in the south-east, but it was never said that it would include Georgia territory.

Members of the commission have been shown the Georgia portion of the proposed site by prominent citizens from all parts of north Georgia. The party was accompanied by Senator William J. Harris, Congressman Thomas M. Bell, James A. Holman, B. H. Stone, Charles S. Barrett, B. S. Barker, Henderson Hallman and a score of other prominent Georgians.

BEAUTIES INVITED TO VISIT STUDIO

In view of the fact that pretty girls are responding in number daily to invitations from the management of the "Miss Atlanta" tournament to visit the studio on the sixth floor of The Constitution building and be entered in the event, the same invitation is issued today.

Staff photographers of The Constitution will be on hand in the studio throughout the day, and every pretty girl who has not already qualified as an applicant for the honors to be paid "Miss Atlanta" is cordially and personally invited to drop in today at her convenience.

Or, if they prefer, they may phone Wesley Hirschburg, well-known Whitehall street photographer, and arrange for a definite sitting in his studio.

While entries continued to mount Monday in The Constitution's 1924 tournament to select "Miss Atlanta" for the National Beauty Tournament at Atlantic City, additional gifts for the lucky girl who wins were announced.

AMERICAN FLIERS

Every Detail and Precaution for Safety Across North Atlantic Ice Floes Arranged.

AMERICAN CRUISERS
TO GUARD WHOLE WAY

Schedule Calls for Reaching Orkney Islands Wednesday Afternoon and Iceland Thursday.

Queensferry, Scotland, July 28.—With every detail arranged for their daring dash over the treacherous ice floes of the North Atlantic, the American round-the-world fliers await the signal which will start them from Brough, England, Wednesday, on man's first air flight over the northern edge of the earth.

The complete itinerary of the American airmen on their final spurt for home was arranged here Monday in a conference between Major Davidson, U. S. A., and Rear Admiral Magruder, commander of the American light cruiser squadron, who arrived at this Scottish port in the Fifth of North in the cruiser Richmond. The completed plans, which were announced following the conference, embody every possible precaution against disaster, including careful placing of destroyers and cruisers along the dangerous route to be followed by the fliers.

Hop Off Wednesday.

The three round-the-world planes will hop off from Brough, Wednesday, for Houghton Bay, near Kirkwall, in the Orkney islands, where they will arrive, according to schedule, about 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. The route of their first hop will be guarded by destroyers.

Meanwhile, the Richmond and the Raleigh, the two cruisers which are protecting the fliers, will be steaming their way toward the frigid waters of the north. Rear Admiral Magruder announced the Raleigh would sail Monday night for Hornoford, Iceland, the first stop of the fliers after they leave the British isles. The Richmond will move off through the dark waters of the Fifth of North early Wednesday morning.

At every jump the fliers make, through the misty skies, a fleet warship will be skimming along their trail on the waters beneath, or will be ahead of them awaiting their arrival.

Lieutenant Smith and his navigators will fly from Kirkwall, Thursday, for Hornoford, arriving there on the same day over a route watched by the destroyers Billingsley and Reid. On August 1, the planes will leave Hornoford for Reykjavik, capital of Iceland.

Whether the La Follette group is conscious of it or not, the great activity about their headquarters, and especially the amount of discussion they contribute to the newspapers, is adapted to forestalling what is at least the possibility that their opportunity may cease with Davis' acceptance speech, now a little over two weeks ahead of us. It is almost impossible to conceive that after Davis has made his speech, and after the two old parties go to each other, La Follette and his group should continue to have as large a share as he now has.

New York, July 28.—(By the Associated Press.)—Limitation of political campaign speeches by radio to 15 minutes, except in rare instances, is under consideration by some of the larger companies operating broadcasting stations in the eastern states, it became known today.

Those in charge of the radio division of the American Telephone and Telegraph company expressed the expectation that the regular radio program would continue without appreciable curtailment, and explained that if the broadcasting stations gave too much time to politics, the public would lose much of its interest in radio.

CAMPAIGN AWAITS
SPEECH OF DAVIS
TO BECOME ACTIVE

Burden Placed on Democratic Nominee of Taking Offensive and Making Issues of Fight.

BY MARK SULLIVAN.

Washington, July 28.—With both the old party organizations it is a case of waiting for Davis to "kick the ball off."

The Democrats are preparing to move their national headquarters here to larger quarters and otherwise to get their national organization ready to function. The Republicans have gone farther in the perfecting of their organization.

With both, however, so far as respects issues, public statements and the real work of the campaign, the obvious condition is one of comparative inert expectancy until Davis reveals what he proposes to raise as the issues. The result is going to be that the campaign this year will be late getting under way, and will therefore be comparatively short. By this date, four years ago, Harding had delivered his acceptance speech, and Cox had delivered his at a date two weeks ahead of the completion of the acceptance speech ceremonies this year.

Davis to Make Issues.

One reason for the earlier start of the campaign in 1920 was the fact that there was a big issue in the minds of the people, the League of Nations, about which they felt strongly and which they were eager to get their teeth into. This year, there is no such issue occupying the public mind and many politicians expect there will be no such dominating issue until and if Davis makes it. It is not too much to say that there is the keenest curiosity as to just what issues Davis will put to the front.

While the two old parties are marking time, La Follette is making opportunity out of their inactivity. The void which the two old parties leave in the field of political discussion is filled by La Follette and his group with daily installments of talk about issues and news of organization.

Whether the La Follette group is conscious of it or not, the great activity about their headquarters, and especially the amount of discussion they contribute to the newspapers, is adapted to forestalling what is at least the possibility that their opportunity may cease with Davis' acceptance speech, now a little over two weeks ahead of us. Veterinarians Are Needed Badly To Check Disease's Ravages, Conference at Memphis Is Told.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Memphis, Tenn., July 28.—Cooperation of federal, state and municipal authorities in an effort to check the spread of anthrax in Mississippi, Arkansas and Tennessee was urged at a conference of officials of the three states and of the city of Memphis here today.

A committee composed of state veterinarians of the three states and the superintendent of public health in Memphis presented its report late today, urging co-ordination of effort and adoption of recognized methods of prevention and control of the disease.

Committee's Recommendations.

1. Prompt reporting of cases of suspected cases of anthrax.
2. Laboratory tests to determine infection.
3. Destruction by burning of all dead stock believed or known to have been infected.
4. Eradication of vultures, horse and cattle flies, dogs and other suspected "carriers."
5. Employment of additional veterinarians in infected areas, and additional health officers in counties where needed.
6. Segregation of herds and isolation of dairy cattle.
7. Vaccination of stock during spring months to prevent recurrence of disease next year.
8. Emergency legislation to provide funds for use in event of recurrence of the disease.

2,000 Dead in Mississippi.

Reports received from various localities of the three states in the affected zone indicated a serious situation in Mississippi and Arkansas. In the former state, according to Governor Whitfield, approximately 2,000 head of livestock have died of anthrax. The governor added that so far as he had been able to determine, approximately Announcement by Alderman J. R. Bachman that he positively will not enter the race for mayor of Atlanta, and formal withdrawal from the race of Alderman R. A. Alderman Gordon stated that his withdrawal was due entirely to the heavy demands of his rapidly expanding business, and in compliance with the wishes of his business partner, who wanted his undivided assistance.

Committee Recommends Paying Lump Sum, in Place of Half State's Revenue Over $8,500,000.

Action of the appropriations committee of the house Monday afternoon in adopting the report of a sub-committee authorized to "classify" all special appropriation bills before it forecasts the course which the assembly will take in regard to the overwhelming mass of special appropriations before it, according to the views of leaders, expressed after the committee action became known.

The sub-committee report recommends favorably 21 of the special appropriations asked, and adversely reported the remainder. Those adversely totaled 42, there being 13 measures in all referred to the committee.

The 21 papers favored call for appropriations of less than $350,000, and the 42 turned down passed the $2,000,000 mark.

$250,000 for Schools.

The committee recommends $250,000 for the common schools to replace the clause in the general appropriations bill allowing 50 per cent of all revenue received by the state above $8,500,000. By this method, it is believed, $500,000 will be left in the treasury, after all 1923 appropriations are paid, and the score of appropriations recommended will practically consume all of this half million.

The sub-committee stated that it had exercised the utmost care in selecting appropriations for favorable recommendation and in every case had acted, it believed, for the best interests of the state. Its purpose had been to recommend only such appropriations as appeared imperative. In many cases the appropriation recommended was considerably reduced from the amount asked in the original bill, this also being done in order to meet only essential needs. In no case was an appropriation asked for the purpose of erecting new buildings granted.

Appropriations Approved.

Appropriations approved are as follows: Georgia Industrial and Normal School for Colored Youths, at Savannah, $25,000. Georgia School for the Deaf, at Cave Springs, $7,000. State Sanatorium for Tubercular Patients, at Alto, $10,000, to be paid out of that portion of the cigar and cigarette tax money already appropriated to this institution. State military department, $10,000. Georgia Training School for Mental Defectives in Richmond county, $1,015.54 (to pay interest on loan and meet loss by fire.) For unpaid salary of judge of the

The Man Who Moved Into Murrell's Row

It took a brave soul in the days of old Atlanta to set up business near Murrell's Row. This alley, near Pryor on Decatur street, had been named for Mr. Murrell, of Tennessee, written down in the histories of those times as a notorious robber and outlaw—the kind of man, no doubt, whose name might aptly apply to a district where gamblers furnished the chief amusement by fighting gamecocks.

Yet in this very neighborhood Moses Formwalt opened his tinshop near a barroom. He was Atlanta's first manufacturer, and he manufactured stills which he is said to have shipped over the state. The settlement extended him a warm welcome: Atlanta elected its first manufacturer also its first mayor.

Since then Atlanta's manufacturers have increased in number as the saloons have decreased. The manufacturer establishing his plant here today finds awaiting him a handshake even more hearty than the one that welcomed Moses Formwalt into Murrell's Row.

Manufacturers locating in or near Atlanta today, moreover, are particularly fortunate in having here the south's most complete system of railroad distribution as well as profitable medium for advertising in the columns of The Atlanta Constitution, which since 1868 has been successfully building Atlanta trade.

For the State Normal school at Athens, $25,000.

For maintenance deficiency at the Georgia School of Technology at Atlanta, $42,944.23.

Appropriations Denied.

Among the larger appropriations asked which did not receive a favorable report were the following:

For equipment and salaries in textile department at Georgia School of Technology, $25,000.

For Georgia College of Agriculture to meet requirements of Smith-Lever act for 1924-1925, $85,000.

To aid cattle owners in over-range counties to dip their cattle, $50,000.

To the state board of health for 1924-1925 for control of malaria, etc., $50,000.

Additional appropriations to state geologic department for 1925, $15,000.

Additional maintenance to Georgia state college of agriculture for 1924-1925, $35,000.

Additional maintenance to Georgia state college of agriculture for 1924-1925, $35,000.

To erect an auditorium for Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, $75,000.

To build a dormitory for Georgia Training School for Boys, $15,000.

For auditorium, lecture hall and dormitory for Georgia state woman's college at Milledgeville, $100,000.

To build fire escapes at Georgia state sanitarium, $25,000.

For completion of building under construction at Georgia School of Technology, department of ceramics, $15,000.

For two dormitories at State Normal school at Athens, $100,000.

For gymnasium at State Normal school at Athens, $100,000.

For dormitory at Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville, $75,000.

For Georgia Industrial college at Savannah, $25,000.

For Georgia Industrial and Normal school at Savannah, $55,000.

Deep Cuts Made.

Of the appropriations granted, some of the most drastically reduced were the state sanitarium at Milledgeville, from $225,500 to $80,000; funds to match federal funds under the Sheppard-Towner act, cut from $24,550.55 to $5,000; and the Georgia School for Mental Defectives, cut from $25,000 to $10,000.

Other requested appropriations were cut in similar manner.

The University of Georgia, out of a total asked under all bills considered of $96,000, is granted $40,000.

Georgia Tech, which asked, all told, $83,944.23, received $44,944.23. The State College of Agriculture, asking $125,000, gets nothing, while the Georgia State College for Women, at Milledgeville, asking $185,000, also gets nothing.

The State Normal school at Athens, asking in all $200,000, is given $25,000.

CAMPAIGN AWAITS SPEECH OF DAVIS

of the field of political news and discussion. It is only possible to imagine that La Follette will continue to be as much in the focus as he now is, by first imagining that the democrats will forego taking the lead themselves. And for the democrats to forego taking the lead of the attack on the republicans, or for La Follette to live up to their opportunity to make a vigorous offensive, would amount to their losing the election.

Davis Must Take Offensive.

Practically all politicians of all parties say that as things stand today, in the nature of the situation, it is a case of the republicans being entrenched in office and of Coolidge being intruded in one degree or another of public confidence with the necessity up to Davis, as a new and comparatively unknown democratic leader, of making such an appeal to the public as to bring himself up to Coolidge's present strength or beyond it. While Davis comparative newness on the stage of national politics, in the popular sense, puts on him the burden, so to speak, of making out his case, it is also admitted that if he is able to make out a strong case for himself, his very newness will be an asset. The democrats rely, and with good reason, on the public curiosity about Davis as a new man, giving him the advantage of greater publicity in the newspapers, movies and elsewhere. The same factor will be a larger attention for him, he says. His public address wherever he travels will draw immense audiences as against Coolidge's comparative retirement in the white house.

That the republicans accept the present waiting attitude, as called for by the nature of the situation, is proved by the comparative silence of general opinion. General opinion has it in him, if he regarded it as good policy for the moment, to keep the air filled with skyrocketing news of Coolidge's confidence in him, that would leave comparatively little of the space that La Follette now fills more or less by the willing default of the old party.

State Campaigns Busy.

While this comparative inactivity is the case as regards the national campaign, there is in many states energetic activity in preparation for part of candidates for congress who have already got under way for their personal campaigns. Of the information brought to the attention of these local campaigns, a net summary would say that apparently it is going to be a year of unparaleled congressional elections in diverse directions. Many American Legion veterans are going to vote against Coolidge because he vetoed the bonus bill. Many civil war veterans proclaim their present intention of doing the same, because Coolidge vetoed the Bursum bill increasing civil war pensions. As against this, the testimony is practically unanimous that the public mind has identified Coolidge with the policy of economy in government. And among those to whom economy appears, there will be not only hearty support of Coolidge, but aggressive determination to vitiate his policy. Almost equally universal is the information the Ku Klux Klan and reactions set up by it are obscuring other issues in very many local elections. One definite and surprising fact is that the cleavage of the Ku Klux Klan in many communities is making it less possible than otherwise might have been, for La Follette to get united support from the labor unions. That the members of the unions should let religious and racial issues destroy their economic solidarity may seem surprising, but there seems no doubt of its being a fact. It is admitted, however, that all these local cross currents may become merged later in interest in bigger issues arising out of the national campaign.

injured, but Wright's machine was struck.

Waters was attacked about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, while Wright is said to have been attacked some time later. They were allowed to proceed after warning.

Wright told Sheriff George W. Gaddis, of Bartow county, that a man named Joe Keyes, who represented himself as the town marshal, fired on him without warning for violation of a law, which the autoist claimed he had no way of knowing existed. He said that there were no visible signs along the road, and that he did not believe he had infringed on any law. It was reported that charge of speeding was made by the officer. Keyes could not be reached at a late hour tonight.

Sheriff Gaddis stated that if either of the men would take out a warrant for Keyes, he would arrest him, but that since Emerson is a chartered municipality, he had no jurisdiction without a warrant. It was not known here tonight whether charges will be launched against Keyes.

"Promissory shooting has been discouraged in Bartow county," Sheriff Gaddis said. "Representatives from this office have instructions to shoot only to defend their lives, and we do not believe in attacking and shooting people for any other cause. We are ready to make Bartow county safe for the travel of autoists, and will cooperate to prevent danger to them."

Homer J. Water, Atlanta police officer, Monday denied that he was the man referred to in the story, stating that he was not outside of Atlanta Sunday, and The Constitution was unable to locate any other man named H. J. Waters Monday night.

AMERICAN FLIERS LEAVE WEDNESDAY

tal of Iceland, located near its southwest coast. The three tiny dots again will await the three tiny dots to appear in the sky. The lane from Hornafjord to Reykjavik will be patrolled by destroyers.

The airman will pause for rest in Iceland and will not begin their leap for Amagssalik on the east coast of Greenland, before August 4 or 5. Both the Raleigh and the destroyers will follow their progress toward Greenland, while the Richmond stands by in the waters off the west coast of the island. The planes are well under way. Then the Richmond, the speediest cruiser in the American navy, will proceed directly to Cape Farewell, at the southernmost tip of Greenland, to await the fliers before their final hop to the American mainland.

Danish Steamer To Aid.

Meantime, amid a pack of ice 10 miles deep off the barren coast of Amagssalik, Greenland, the Danish steamer Gertrude Rask awaits the planes with supplies. To land on the beach at Amagssalik, the Americans must negotiate a mass of dangerous, shifting ice floes which constitute one of the greatest hazards of the journey. From Amagssalik, the route follows the shore to Vigvig, at the southern end of Greenland. Cape Farewell is hedged by a pack of ice 150 miles deep, while off the coast loom some of the most menacing icebergs of the North Atlantic. Scottish mariners of Queenensferry and Rosyth say the last ocean-going ship penetrated this ice in 1908 and hasn't been seen since.

The Richmond will wait at Cape Farewell until the fliers start southward, guarded by destroyers coming from Labrador. The Richmond will then cruise to Indian Harbor, the first point to receive the planes on the Labrador coast.

When the Richmond leaves here, she will carry 24,000 gallons of gasoline for emergency use by the three army planes. From a British lighter standing alongside the Richmond, 250,000 gallons of oil have been obtained for use both by the cruiser and the destroyers in their dash through the path of the planes.

HABERSHAM COUNTY WELCOMES COMMISSION.

Clarkeville, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Members of the Appalachian Park commission arrived here this morning at 10 o'clock from Helen, and were met by a large number of enthusiastic citizens from Clarkeville, Demorest, Cornelia, Mount Airy, Alto, Baldwin, Tallulah Park and Habersham county. Short addresses of welcome were delivered by Colonel L. H. Sutton, L. B. Magid, president of the Appalachian club, and F. D. Singleton, editor of The Tri-Weekly Advertiser.

The response was made by Dr. Hubert Work, in a short speech, in which he expressed himself with being favorably impressed with what he had seen and the information he had. He said the territory proposed for the national park would be a proper and ideal place for the park, but that he was not in a position at this time to express any definite opinion as to just what the committee might do until they had surveyed the entire territory proposed.

The committee left here at 11 o'clock by way of Tallulah Park, Tallulah Falls, Lakemont, Clayton, Mountain City, Dillard to Highlands, N. C., where they proposed to spend the night.

imately six or eight persons had died from the disease.

Twenty-five counties in Mississippi are affected, Governor Whitfield said. Every force of the state government is being used and boards of supervisors in the various counties are making special appropriations to fight the disease. More veterinarians for field work are badly needed, said the governor.

Twenty Arkansas counties are affected, the veterinarian of that state reported. He said six or eight persons had died of the disease, but explained that no authoritative estimate of the toll in live stock was available.

Tennessee Loss Slight.

The situation in Tennessee was said to be less serious, not so many counties in this state being affected. No human lives have been reported lost to the disease, Dr. Lincoln said, and the toll of livestock has not been appreciably heavy.

The conference agreed that the pressing need at present is for men and money with which to fight the disease. Veterinarians and funds to carry on the field and laboratory work with the greatest possible speed are the prime needs, the conference said, and an effort will be made in each state to provide the necessary aid.

An appeal was made to Secretary Wallace of the agriculture department, by Senator Kenneth D. McKellar, of Tennessee, who urged the department to place at the disposal of the affected states any available funds in order that the campaign against anthrax might be expedited.

Georgia Exhibit Backers Will Ask $30,000 of State

The Georgia legislature today will be asked to appropriate $30,000 toward cost of Georgia's exhibit in the Southern exposition, to be held next January 1931 in the Grand Central Palace, New York.

This decision was reached at a meeting Monday in the chamber of commerce of about 50 well-known Georgians, assembled on invitation of Governor Walker to further plans for the exhibit. The resolution was offered by W. E. Dunwoody, of Macon.

Monday afternoon a committee headed by Vice Chairman R. E. L. Niel conferred with Governor Walker and other state officials, who indicated that they would support such a measure.

Georgians Confident.

With more than half of the state's allotted space already reserved, and the remainder tentatively assigned, the conferees were confident that Georgia's exhibit would be successful in every respect.

In stating the purpose of the meeting, Vice Chairman Niel of the Georgia committee, who presided in the absence of Chairman J. M. Walker, outlined the scope of the exposition and progress of arrangements so far.

"The exposition will show to the world what the south has done and is accomplishing," Mr. Niel said. "The south desires buyers for its products, as well as new citizens, investors, manufacturers, farmers, professional and business men. The exhibit will include products of factories, industries, mines, agriculture and horticulture; means and equipment for transportation, power, sanitation and education; pictures and specimens of natural resources; and a general panorama of the progress of development."

Brief talks pledging active personal support were made by Mayor J. H. Dimon, of Columbus; Mayor W. M. Legg, of Albany; Dr. M. L. Brittain, president of Georgia Tech; Dr. S. W. McCallie, state geologist; Mrs. T. T. Stevens, president Atlanta Federation of Women's Clubs, and others.

VIADUCT MEASURE READY FOR SENATE

The long-contested Atlanta viaduct measure, providing for construction of bridges over the railroad tracks at Pryor street and Central avenue, was finally approved Monday afternoon by senate committee of the Western & Atlantic railroad after four amendments had been made by the committee. The vote was 49 to 2.

Amendments to the original measure, adopted by the committee, are: By Senator Lankford, of the fifth district; amending the bill so that a committee of three from the senate and three from the house shall pass on the plans instead of five from the house and two from the senate.

By Senator Lankford; amending the bill to give the legislative committee the same power in passing on the plans and specifications as the lessees have.

Must Begin by 1930.

By Senator Moore, of the seventh district; providing that work on the viaducts must begin by January 1, 1930.

By Senator Moore; providing that the railroads shall agree to take away any claims of deductions or abatements of rentals and damages to the leased property.

Senator Keith, Friday, withdrew his substitute measure, and a substitute by Senator Kennon was defeated Monday by a vote of 10 to 2. The Keith substitute specified that the viaduct be built providing the lessees first filed with the state an agreement consenting to construction of the bridges, and would make no claim for damages, or ask reduction of rental on property occupied by the railroad, which belongs to the state.

The Kennon substitute provided that a Union station committee be appointed, consisting of five members from each house, the attorney-general of the state and two citizens of the state-at-large, and that this committee would devise ways and means for such construction, and perfect plans, not only for the viaducts, but for property known as the Union station, and would submit specifications and cost.

Must Pass Both Houses.

The action of the W. & A. committee came after the measure had been discussed at an open hearing, been on the senate floor for debate, and ordered recommitted to the committee for further consideration.

Second open hearing had been held Friday, lasting for over three hours. A number of prominent Atlantans, including Mayor Walter Sims, spoke in favor of the measure, urging the legislature to give Atlanta the power to build the bridges, which, they claimed, would relieve the traffic problem in that section of the city and enhance the value of surrounding property. Opponents of the measure, several lessees of land which will be affected by construction of the viaducts, contended that the bridges would "put in a hole" their property and decrease its value.

$130 Dividend Is Return On One-Dollar Investment

A dividend of $130 on an investment of $1—How's that for a paying proposition?

Pretty good—we'll say it is. Why not get in on a good thing, Mr. Reader, while the getting's good?

Constitution Insurance is the answer—insurance that costs you practically nothing, but keeps you protected against the dreadful menace of swift death or slow demise.

Listen to this case: Miss Louise Stovall, of 449 Central avenue, Atlanta, was injured in an automobile accident on March 13, 1924, at Pryor street and Trinity avenue. She was run over by a truck, from which accident she was totally disabled for thirteen weeks.

Miss Stovall was the holder of a $1,000 Constitution Travel and Pedestrian accident insurance policy—for which she paid only $1 per year in addition to the regular subscription rate of her Daily and Sunday Constitution—and under the provisions of her policy, she was paid the sum of $130 on June 30.

This famous policy, which costs only $1 per year, provides $1,000 protection against death in certain accidents, varying sums for injuries—and it is the only policy offered by a newspaper in Georgia paying as much as $10 per week for disability on a pedestrian accident.

Another great protective offer made by The Constitution is its $500 Group Reader Life insurance policy—the only straight life policy offered by an Atlanta newspaper. It costs only 15 or 20 cents per week (depending on the risk involved) in addition to the regular Constitution subscription rates, and it remains in force as long as payments on both the policy and The Constitution subscription are maintained.

You could do no greater service to your loved ones than by protecting yourself under both these unparalleled opportunities. Phone, write or call The Constitution's insurance department for full details.

SLAYERS' BRAVADO BROKEN BY BOY

Intelligently answered questions Monday would have been kidnapped and murdered. Disappointed, the two slayers kidnapped Robert Franks, the next boy who became available for the purpose.

Slayers Had Bad Day. Levinson's appearance and the introduction of a letter written by Leob and Leopold, had made the day an uncomfortable one for the slayers. They cringed under the lash of the testimony of the little boy whose life they had intended to take and under the damaging evidence afforded by the reading and identification in court of the typewritten notes they had sent Jacob Franks, father of the slain boy, demanding ransom for Robert Franks and giving instructions how to prepare the ransom money.

The court reporter had finished reading the preliminary statements made by Leopold attending the confession when Crowe suddenly decided to discontinue the reading until Tuesday morning. Court then adjourned. On Tuesday the complete confessions of both Leob and Leopold will be read, according to Crowe, with additional statements relating to the study he two slayers made of books on physical and mental abnormalities.

Levinson Names Leob. When Levinson, a fine looking, frank-faced lad, with brown wavy hair and dark brown eyes, took the stand, Justice Caverly questioned him to make sure that he understood the nature of the proceedings and the study he two slayers made of books on physical and mental abnormalities.

Leob stood up and the lad identified him.

"Do you remember the afternoon of May 29, 1924, when you and I went to the Harvard school and afterwards went to play ball with Bobby Franks and a bunch of the boys?"

"Did you see Richard Leob that afternoon?"

"Yes, we had been playing ball when he came up and talked to me." "Was you close with him?"

"Gene Seass." (An instructor in athletics at the Harvard school.) "What did Leob do?"

"He talked a few minutes and walked away."

Confession Explains Action. In their confessions, Leob and Leopold said they had driven their rented automobile to the club just outside the lot where the Harvard school pupils were playing ball. The arrangement was that Leob should ask young Levinson to take a ride with them. They intended to kill him, lude the body and write him a letter, demanding ransom.

The presence of Seass, the instructor, frightened Leob and Leopold and they refrained from carrying out the plan. And that was all that saved the life of young Levinson.

The two slayers then drove around the block and returned. They saw "Bobby" Franks and then they put their scheme into operation. Less than 20 minutes later the Franks boy had been lured into their automobile and rendered unconscious with a blow from a chisel.

Killers Dread Letter-Reading. The introduction of the letters to Franks and their reading in court resulted in a series of interesting and dramatic incidents. Varied emotions flitted across the faces of the two as they listened to the deliberate reading into the court record of the writings that attested what the state has termed the "most vicious and atrocious crime in the history of jurisprudence."

The slayers seemed to dread the persistent introduction of these portions of their confessions.

The tournament management is anxious to enroll every pretty girl in Atlanta, in order that the final selection may truly deserve the title of "Miss Atlanta," and to that end a cordial standing invitation is issued to every pretty girl in the city or any of its suburbs (including Decatur, or any part of Fulton county), to qualify for the many local honors to be paid the winner and for the free trip with her chaperon to Atlantic City for the first week in September.

Big audiences at the Metropolitan theater throughout Monday displayed keen interest in the second film showing in moving pictures actual progress of the city's beauty tournament. The film this week features preliminary study by Martin Amorous, Jr., on the gorgeous gowns he will create for "Miss Atlanta," showing him in his studio experimenting with draping effects.

In addition, a group of pretty entrants is shown on parade and in water events. The film is the second in a weekly series to be shown by the Metropolitan theater made by Tracy Mathewson, veteran cameraman.

in the work of opening up a new chain of branch houses in Florida for the American Fur Company. Alderman Gordon announced his intention of running several weeks ago. He is considered one of the most influential members of council, and last year was elected by council as mayor pro tempore. He holds a number of important committee assignments.

Gordon Thanks Friends. "I wish to first thank my many friends who so kindly placed me in the race for mayor and pledged me their wholehearted support," Alderman Gordon said, in announcing his withdrawal, "and then to express keen regret that the decision to extend my business would make it impossible for me to engage in the campaign."

"I was able only today to state positively that I could not enter the race. The American Fur Company has decided to broaden its business and establish a chain of stores in Florida. We have already opened a store in Miami. We are to make plans at once for opening a store in Tampa. My business partner, M. W. Reid, is now in Florida. He has advised me against making the race for the mayoralty. It is our plan to find a location in Tampa at once and to have a furniture store in operation there by the early fall. That will necessitate my making extended business trips to that city. The matter of arranging for the opening of the Tampa store devolves on me."

Advised To Quit. "I wrote my partner a letter last week, hoping to convince him that I could participate in the mayoralty campaign and at the same time look after our business interests. I received a letter from him this morning in which he strongly advised me again to abandon the race. It is upon the receipt of this letter that I withdrew, although I believe I could have made a good race."

Alderman Gordon has served in council for the last six years, two terms as councilman from the fourth ward and two years of a three-year term as alderman from that ward. He has held enviable positions of prominence on the important committees of council and has become one of the most outstanding figures in the city legislative body by reason of taking a determined stand on all issues of importance.

Kansas City Doctor Invents New Truss

New Discovery Heals Rupture Without An Operation

Kansas City, Mo.—(Special.)—A new discovery which experts agree has no equal for curative effects in all rupture cases, is the latest accomplishment of the well-known Hernia Specialist, Dr. Andrews, 122-H Koch Bldg., Kansas City, Mo. The extraordinary success of this new method proves that it holds and holds a new record in the treatment of persons to throw away trusses and declare their rupture absolutely healed. Many of these had serious double ruptures, from which they had suffered for years. It is Dr. Andrews' ambition to have every ruptured person enjoy the quick relief, comfort and healing power of his discovery, and he will send it on a free trial to any reader of The Constitution who writes him. He wants one person in each neighborhood to whom he can refer. If you wish to be rid of your rupture for good, without an operation, take advantage of the doctor's free offer. Write him today.—(adv.)

Typewriter Was Stolen. An interesting sidelight on the case was afforded by the appearance of George W. McEllan, an official of the Underwood Typewriter company, who testified that the portable on which the ransom notes were written had been stolen from Pierce Bitter, of Milwaukee, who was a fellow student of Leob and Leopold in the University of Michigan. Bitter now is a European trip.

Crowe hopes to complete the state's case by Tuesday night. Darrow intends to ask for a continuance of a day or two, in order to give him more time to prepare his defense. Originally he had intended putting only enough witnesses on the stand to establish a presumption of mitigating circumstances. But he has changed his mind and he now intends to introduce numerous witnesses and answer every issue the state has raised, he says.

Franks Had Received Demand. The kidnapers had intended that Franks should get into the taxicab and leave the money they had told him in a telephone call to put it. But at the Franks home Robinson was told he was not wanted, and in the excitement there attending the discovery of the murder Robinson drove away, unaware that he had played a part in a tragedy. He was found the next day by detectives.

Leob Signed "Ballard" Cards. Crowe then showed the witness hotel register cards, bearing the signature of "Norman D. Ballard," and asked: "In whose handwriting is this signature?"

The handwriting is the signature of Richard Leob," Tyrell answered. Leob flushed. Leopold squirmed and clutching Bachrach by the sleeve, apparently he asked him to intervene. Bachrach arose but said nothing.

The witness then was shown photographs which he had made of type writing done by Leopold, letters Leob had written that had no direct connection with the ransom notes, others written about subjects he had studied at Chicago university and many other documents.

The state's attorney then produced the typewritten note that Jacob Franks had received demanding ransom for the return of Robert.

Reads Ransom Note. Then Crowe read what he characterized as the most cold-blooded misanthropic of the series of three sent to Franks by the murderers.

This note said in part: "Dear Sir: No doubt, you know by this time that your son is kidnapped. For obvious reasons, make no attempt to communicate with anybody, the police or any agencies. For if you do we will kill him. Have $10,000 ready before noon today in old bills. This money should be placed in a large cigar box.

"Remain at home after 1 p. m. As a final word of warning, this is strictly a commercial proposition and we are prepared to carry out our threat. However, if you carefully carry out our instructions we will see that your son is returned to you safe and sound."

Boy Already Slain. By the time Jacob Franks received this letter, the state already has shown, his son had been killed and the body was lying face down in water in a culvert in the same swamp that had been the scene of many of Leopold's expeditions to study birds.

The final letter was one telling Franks just how to board the train with his ransom money and where to throw it out. Leob and Leopold were glad when Crowe finished reading these letters. Leob mopped his forehead. It was dripping with moisture. His face had assumed a peculiar clammy appearance.

"What kind of a machine was that letter written on?" Crowe asked Tyrell.

"The letter was written on a portable Underwood," the witness answered.

"Is the typewriting in these letters

THE CARROT-TOPPED GIRL.

By Anne Zuker.
I got red hair, I hate the stuff!
My sister's is a yellow fluff.
Ugh—what luck I've freckles, too.

Do I love pink? I guess I do!
And always have to just wear blue
Or lavender or sickly green.

I want a cape of scarlet, too,
Just like belongs to sister Prue.
It would look rare with flame-red hair.

I got red hair and I'm a girl.
It's stringy straight, it just won't curl.

Now is that fair when I'm a girl?
And "Carrot-Top" My cousin Jim
Says that old name's not for him.

It can never mean how it hurts a girl.
Sometimes folks say they love red hair.

It's wonderful and they'd not care
If it was theirs. What a whopper!

These folks I hope don't mean a hair,
But you can guess with just one try
From what they've said, their hair's not red!

Too Proper!

Miss Sweet: "Are you familiar with Mark Twain, dearie?"
Miss Highbrow: "Why the idea!
I am never familiar with anybody!"

Truthfully Told.

"I'll tell the world my wife is keen."
"So?"
"Absolutely. The minister's wife called on her one afternoon while I was in the attic experimenting with a new recipe, and she said to my wife that she hoped that I wasn't one of the goddess sort who'd try to get around the dry law, in any way, and my wife promptly assured her that I was above doing such a thing!"

A Banker's Privilege.

Mrs. Brown: "Your husband goes swimming pretty often, doesn't he?"
Mrs. Jones: "Oh, yes! You can find him in a poolroom almost every day."

The Editor's Sanctum.
Now and then some reader "slips
by" a bit of humor that has appeared elsewhere. Being human, it must be obvious that we haven't read everything.

A number of hard-working contributors to the Fun Shop have earnestly suggested we accept their suggestion that we make public the names of offenders.

We think the suggestion a valuable one. And, accordingly, shall, from time to time, make public the names of flagrant violators.

Be sure and send in original or unpublished humor.

Up-to-Date.
Not to be behind in the cross word puzzle craze, we submit the following:

Cross words—
You mean thing
You're a fibber
Go to thunder
Pay up
Hussy
Your cooking's awful
Don't be a clam
Stop talking
Get out of the room
You're never here

The puzzle is to find out by whom the cross words have been uttered.
—John Philip Sousa.

Rare.
Magazine Editor: "There's no sex appeal in this story."
Author: "But you told me you wanted something new, original, different!"

Hide and Sneak.
Outside the boys are gathered
Excitement's high, you bet,
While Johnny hides from mother,
And smokes his cigarette.

Inside the women gather Excitement's higher yet,
While mother spies from Johnny
And smokes her cigarette.
—Peter Pang.

Mary Had a Little—

Mary's mother came suddenly into the room, and found her little four-year-old daughter vigorously slapping her mouth.

"Why Mary, what's the matter?"
asked her mother. "Why are you slapping your mouth so?"

"Darn thing won't whistle!" answered Mary. —Ruth Pinkham.

Superfluous.
"Brother Washington Lincoln
Johnson," said Parson Williams,
"kain't yo' all donate some small contribution t' de fund fo' fencin' in our cemetery?"

"I dunno, as I kain. Pabson, I don't see no use in a fence aroun' no cemetery. Them what's in can't git out, an' them what's out don't want it in."

White Fang

BY JACK LONDON

A tree, contracting in the cool of the night, made a loud noise. It was directly above him. He yelped in his fright. A panic seized him, and he ran madly toward the village. He knew an overpowering desire for the protection and companionship of man. In his ears the camp sounds and cries were ringing loud. He passed out of the forest and into the moonlit open where were no shadows and no darkness. But no village greeted his eyes. He had forgotten.

The village had gone away.

His wild flight ceased abruptly.
There was no place to which to flee.
He slunk forlornly through the deserted camp, smelling the rubbish-heaps and the discarded rags and tags of the gods. He would have been glad for the rattle of stones about him, flung by an angry squaw, glad for the hand of Gray Beaver descending upon him in wrath; while he would have welcomed with delight Lip-lip and the whole snarling, cowardly pack.

He came to where Gray Beaver's tepee had stood. In the center of the space it had occupied, he sat down. He pointed his nose at the moon. His throat was afflicted by rigid spasms, his mouth opened, and in a heart-broken cry bubbled up his loneliness and fear, his grief for Kiche, all his past sorrows and miseries as well as his apprehension of sufferings and dangers to come. It was the long wolf-howl, full-throated and mournful, the first howl he had ever uttered.

The coming of daylight dispelled
his fears, but increased his loneliness.
The naked earth, which so shortly before had been populous, thrust its loneliness more forcibly upon him.
It did not take him long to make up his mind. He plunged into the forest.

White Fang was intelligent beyond the average of his kind; yet his mental vision was not wide enough to embrace the other bank of the Mackenzie. What if the trail of the gods led out on that side? It never entered his head. Later on, when he had travelled more and grown older and wiser and come to know more of trails and rivers, it might be that he could grasp and apprehend such a possibility. But that mental power was yet in the future. Just now he ran blindly, his own bank of the Mackenzie alone entering into his calculations.

All night, he ran, blundering in the darkness into mishaps and obstacles that delayed but did not daunt. By the middle of the second day he had been running continuously for thirty hours, and the iron of his flesh was giving out. It was the endurance that kept him going. He had not often in forty hours, and he was weak with hunger. The repeated drenchings in the icy water had likewise had their effect on him. His handsome coat was dragged. The broad pads of his feet were bruised and bleeding. He had begun to limp, and this limp increased with the hours. To make it worse, the light of the sky was obscured and snow began to fall—a raw, moist, melting, clinging snow, slippery under foot, that hid from him the landscape he traversed, and that covered over the inequalities of the ground so that the way of his feet was more difficult and painful.

Gray Beaver had intended camping that night on the far bank of the Mackenzie, for it was in that direction that the hunting lay. But on the near bank, shortly before dark, a moose, coming down to drink, had been espied by Kloo-kooch, who was Gray Beaver's squaw. Now, had not the moose come down to drink, had not Mit-sah been steering out of the course because of the snow, had not Kloo-kooch sighted the moose, and had not Gray Beaver willed it with a lucky shot from his rifle, all subsequent things would have happened differently. Gray Beaver would not have camped on the near side of the Mackenzie, and White Fang would have passed by and gone on, either to die or to find his way to his wild brothers, and become one of them—

a wolf to the end of his days.

Night had fallen. The snow was flying more thickly, and White Fang was whimpering softly to himself as he stumbled and limped along, came up on a fresh trail in the snow. So fresh was it, that he knew it immediately for what it was. Whining with eagerness, he followed back from the river bank and in among the trees. The camp-sounds came to his ears. He saw the blaze of the fire, Kloo-kooch cooking, and Gray Beaver squatting on his hams and munching a chunk of raw tallow.

There was fresh meat in camp!
White Fang expected a beating.
He crouched and bristled a little at the thought of it. Then he went forward again. He feared and disliked the beating he knew to be waiting for him. But he knew, further, that the comfort of the fire would be his, the protection of the gods, the companionship of the dogs—the last, a companionship of enmity, but none the less a companionship and satisfying to his gregarious needs.

MARK McCULLOUGH IS LAID TO REST AT WEST POINT

Funeral services for Mark McCullough, member of the legislature from Troup county, who died at a private hospital here Sunday, were held at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon from the residence in West Point, Ga., where the body was taken Sunday afternoon. Interment was in West Point, with H. M. Patterson & Son in charge.

Mr. McCullough's death followed an illness with which he was stricken early last week while in his room at the Kimball House. He was 44 years old, and was well-known throughout the state. He was prominent in fraternal bodies of West Point, having been a member of the Rotary club, Masons and Knights of Pythias.

Name Two Committees On Project To Move Seminary to Atlanta

Two special committees, named Monday at a meeting of representatives of the Presbyterian synod of Georgia at the office of the home mission board, 101 Marietta street, will begin work immediately to complete a report to show why the Columbia Theological seminary, of Columbia, S. C., should be moved to Atlanta, and to prepare arguments for presentation at the annual meeting of the synods of South Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, in October.

J. B. Campbell, of the Central Presbyterian church, was named chairman of the committee on sites and finances, while Dr. J. R. McCain, president of Agnes Scott college, will head the committee on general program and procedure of the movement.

The board of trustees of the seminary has requested that the school, which is supported by a general fund, be moved to a more central location in the territory, especially in view of the fact that the institution has outgrown its present buildings, and new structures are necessary.

WEST END BRANCH BANK OPENS TODAY

The new West End branch of the Fourth National bank will open this morning in its handsome new building at Lee and Gordon streets. The West End branch is one of the four banks which the Fourth National has established in community centers.

Open house is to be held from 9 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock at night and many visitors are expected during these hours. The Fourth National system has extended an invitation to the public, especially to residents of the neighborhood, to inspect the elaborate branch.

50 DIVORCE VERDICTS RETURNED ON MONDAY

Fifty divorce verdicts were returned by a single jury in Judge J. D. Humphries' division of Fulton superior court Monday.

More than half this number were second verdicts upon which the court signed decrees of total divorce. The others were first verdicts to be followed by an average verdict six months hence, unless withdrawal.

There are an average of 1,000 divorce verdicts in Fulton county annually, records of the superior court show.

Fair-Weather Wives

BY MILDRED BARBOUR

Freedom Is Offered.

A fortnight passed before Marjorie returned to Soundview. By that time Reed Hollister was on the way for recovery, at least the danger was past and it was conceded that he would get well.

During the two weeks that Marjorie spent at the shabby little inn keeping within calling distance of the doctor, alert for any sign of unusual activity in the sickroom. Hollister was quite unaware of the fact that his wife-of-a-day was within a hundred miles of him.

If he thought of her at all in his few conscious, pain-racked moments, he undoubtedly pictured her at Soundview, going her way, easily, unthinkingly, as was the inevitable custom of the women of her family in the face of disaster.

Once he believed that he had opened his eyes and seen her lovely face, wearing an irreconcilably compassionate look, bending above him. But he promptly put it down to a figment of his delirium. His own desire, he believed, had conjured up that vision in his fevered brain.

It wasn't until he was able to be propped on pillows and was looking over the files of old newspapers trying to catch up with the progress of the world during his absence from it, that he learned the truth from the stories of his own accident and illness.

For a long time, while the nurse read a novel in the adjoining room, he stared into space. So, he thought, the gallant little creature, conquering her fear and hatred of him, she had come to be near him at that everyone believed was the end. He had always known she was true; but when he first saw her, standing out from the tangle of hypocrisy and selfishness and deceit that enveloped her family, was that white pure flame, burning steadily, unquenchably.

There was tenderness, understanding, gratitude unspeakable in his fine eyes. But, curiously, there was no happiness. Only a sad resignation, a touch of bitterness, perhaps.

HEADACHE GONE TIRED NO MORE

Gives Credit to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Hopes Other Women Will Benefit by Her Experience

Skowhegan, Maine.—"I was sick most of the time and could not get around to do my work without being all tired out so I would have to lie down. One day when I was reading the paper I saw the Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertisement and saw what I did for other women, so I thought I would try it. I have taken three bottles, and cannot begin to tell you what it has already done for me. I do all my work now and keep up the whole day long without lying down. I have no more headaches nor tired feelings. I hope every woman who takes the Vegetable Compound will get as much benefit out of it as I have."—Mrs. Percy W. Richardson, R.F.D. No. 2, Skowhegan, Maine.

You have just read how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helped Mrs. Richardson. She gave it a trial after she saw what it had done for other women. For nearly fifty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been doing good.

DR. HAYMORE QUILTS DECATUR PULPIT FOR STATE POST

Dr. J. M. Haymore has resigned the pastorate of the First Baptist church of Decatur to accept the position of state evangelist for Missouri, to which post he was elected some days ago.

DR. J. M. HAYMORE.

Dr. Haymore tendered his resignation Sunday morning effective August 11. He will continue to preach through the first two Sundays of August.

Dr. Haymore came to Decatur three years ago from Waycross, where he was pastor of the First Baptist church for a number of years. He has held other pastorates in Georgia, notably at Moultrie and Gainesville. He is a native of North Carolina, being a graduate of Wake Forest college. His earlier pastorates were in North Carolina and Kentucky. Dr. Haymore's Decatur ministry has been marked by the large number of people who have united with the church. He has his own pastorate. Four hundred and ninety-two people have joined the church under his ministry.

Dr. Haymore goes to Missouri to direct work of evangelism in that state, in which the work of all church bodies is rapidly growing. He will live in St. Louis.

Sheriff Who Hit Dog Days Arrive; Woman in Face May Face Trial

E. C. Allen, 251 Hill street, does not intend to pass up the matter of his wife being slapped by A. S. Baggett, sheriff of Douglas county, he said Monday, declaring he probably would institute legal action against Baggett in Douglas county.

According to the story of Allen and Baggett, the latter slapped Mrs. Allen after a search had been made of Allen's automobile on the outskirts of Douglasville Sunday afternoon, to see whether it contained liquor. Both agree that none was found.

The sheriff, however, declared he slapped Mrs. Allen in the face for cursing him. Allen stated he did not hear his wife use any profanity, and denies she used abusive language. Allen, who is connected with the office of the Metropolitan Insurance company, conferred with attorneys here Monday.

Sheriff Baggett, in statements to newspaper men, declared he searched the car because he had been informed by Harlan county authorities that a liquor case was pending against him and he wanted to be sure whether the Allen car was the one.

Allen stated that as he was leaving Douglasville a battered roadster was driven across the road, blocking passage. Two men got out and, on his halting his car, dragged him out at the point of a pistol without stating their business. He said he was told to get back in the car and that Baggett, as he learned one of the men to be, then slapped Mrs. Allen.

Walker Praises Georgia Mountain Road Conditions
Filled with enthusiasm over the condition of Georgia's roads in the mountain sections of the northern part of the state, Governor Clifford Walker returned to his desk Monday after spending the week-end with Secretary of the Interior Work and the Georgia Road Commission now touring the mountain country of the southern Appalachians with the view of recommending that a great national park be located there.

While the governor stressed the fact that his opinion was merely a personal surmise, he yet stated that he was very hopeful committee of the state, and partly in Tennessee and the Carolinas," he said.

STILL SUPPORTERS MEET WEDNESDAY AT LABOR TEMPLE

A mass meeting will be held at 8 o'clock Wednesday night at the Labor Temple to map out the coming campaign to elect Luther H. Still, labor candidate, as representative from Fulton county in the Georgia legislature. The general caucus committee of 230 members, embracing representatives from each of the affiliated organizations, as well as the railroad brotherhoods, was named by Chairman Robert E. Gann, of the typographical union. Members of this body will be present at the meeting Wednesday night and will be formed into subcommittees.

Luther Still, who was recently named as the candidate of the labor forces for representative from this county in the general assembly, will be present, and he is expected to address the gathering upon the issues of the campaign. The public is invited.

ELECTRIC CHAIR BILL UP IN SENATE TODAY

The proposal to substitute the electric chair for the gallows as a means of executing the death sentence in Georgia will, in all probability, come up for consideration at today's session of the senate, in view of the fact that the measure has taken its place on the regular senate calendar and there are only a few minor bills to be disposed of before it.

Another measure of state-wide importance, which is scheduled to be taken up by the upper house today, is the bill known as the forestry contract act, set as a special measure this morning.

The electric chair measure, introduced by Senator Phillips, of the 18th district, was defeated by a vote of 18 to 17 last week, but after a similar bill was passed by the lower house the same day, the senate voted the next day to reconsider Senator Phillips' measure and placed it back on the calendar.

Debate Forestry Bill Today.
The "forestry contract act" was introduced by Senator Munn, of the 38th district, at the request of the Georgia forestry association. Its object, as set out in the measure, is to encourage the growth of timber on forested and cut-over lands in private ownership, not now required for other uses than the growth of timber, by an adjustment of the manner of taxing it in keeping with the time required to mature its product. The bill provides for fixing the assessed value, for a period of 15 to 40 years, of forest lands which are placed under contract of reforestation with the state board of forestry.

The senate, at Monday's session, centered its attention chiefly on a bill by Senator Eicklen, of the fifth district, providing for the appointment of members of the board of trustees of the state sanatorium at Milledgeville. A dozen senators joined in the debate, which centered on an amendment to substitute the word "may" for "shall."

After debate for about 20 minutes, and while a vote was being taken on the substitute, Senator Eicklen, the author, arose and made a motion that the measure and substitute be tabled. The motion was carried.

Two House Bills Passed.
Two house bills were passed by the senate, one authorizing Crawfordville to issue school bonds, and the other amending the act creating the department of commissioners of roads and revenue for Bacon county.

After passing a house resolution by Representative Perkins, under which members of Congress from Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee are urged to exert their efforts for establishment of a national park in the Appalachian mountains, which these four states have in common, the senate adjourned soon after noon.

the south's leading wholesale and retail furniture stores, and serves his friends to visit him at the furniture exhibition building, corner South Forsyth and Hunter streets.

Mr. Crane originated and edited "Mather's Message," a monthly house organ, of which 10,000 copies were mailed regularly to home-lovers of Atlanta. This little magazine received favorable comment wherever it was sent.

He has been instrumental in putting retail furniture advertising on a higher plane through proper selection of illustrations, artistic layout and appealing descriptive text. He adheres rigidly to the principles of truthful advertising.

The Mather firm, in addition to the store at the corner of Forsyth and Hunter streets, operates stores at Daytona, St. Petersburg, and West Palm Beach, Fla., all of which are reporting exceptionally good business. Advertising for all stores will be supervised from the main store in Atlanta.

TWO NEGROES ESCAPE AFTER KILLING COP

Little Rock, Ark., July 28.—Posses of the State of Arkansas in pursuit of this city for two unidentified negroes who late last night shot and killed Harvey L. Biggs, a motorcycle officer, when Biggs and another policeman, W. P. Davenport, attempted to arrest them when they were discovered stripping a disabled automobile which had been parked on the roadside near the city limits.

A number of shots were exchanged and it is believed both of the negroes were wounded. Both, however, escaped.

Assessments Halted

Campbell Bank Stockholders Get Injunction.

Assessments of 60 per cent against stockholders of the Bank of Campbell County, of Fairburn, placed in the hands of the state superintendent of banking several weeks ago, were halted Monday when the banking department was enjoined from issuing executions for their collection.

Assessments were ordered after the department had made an audit of the bank's affairs. Stockholders claim the assessment is not necessary.

FIREMEN PENSION Bill To Come Up For Action Today

To afford insurance companies an opportunity to be represented the house committee on labor and labor statistics Monday afternoon deferred action until 2:30 o'clock today on a bill designed to provide a pension fund for disabled and veteran Atlanta firemen.

This measure, jointly sponsored by the Fulton, DeKalb and Richmond delegations, would levy an assessment of one-fourth of 1 per cent on all fire insurance premiums collected in the corporate limits of Atlanta and an assessment of 1 per cent of the salaries of all employees of the Atlanta fire department to provide for retirement on one-half salary, after 25 years' service of all members of the department and also provides a similar income for members of the department who become totally disabled.

It is estimated that the assessment would yield an annual income of from $20,000 to $25,000 from insurance premiums and an additional amount of approximately $5,000 from salaries of the 300 members of the Atlanta fire department.

When it is a general bill the present application is limited to cities of 150,000 and above, as the sponsors announced more determined opposition would be expected if it was made state-wide in scope and it is the desire to secure the passage at the present session of the legislature. Chairman C. E. Stewart read a letter from Robert N. Hughes, local agent of the Industrial Union of Marine and Inland Waterway Workers of America, in which it was requested that action be deferred until Tuesday or Wednesday as this request was complied with by the committee.

Another measure postponed until today on account of the absence of Representative Langley, of Floyd, the author, is a house act to prohibit females and male minors from working in manufacturing and industrial plants between the hours of 9 p. m. and 5 a. m. Mrs. Cordelia P. Wright, state superintendent of women in industry for the W. C. T. U., has written Chairman Stewart she desires to appear before the committee in behalf of this measure.

CARPENTER HELD FOR ASSAULTING ONE OF DEBTORS

Miami, Fla., July 28.—W. E. Martin, a carpenter, was arrested this afternoon charged with assault and battery as an outgrowth of an attack this morning on Harry Goodman, a merchant, at Mr. Goodman's place of business, in which the merchant sustained a fracture of the skull from a blow over the head with a piece of board.

According to the police, Goodman was going to the station found it had been locked by Martin, who took that means, he said, of collecting a bill for labor. While Goodman was unlocking the door, Martin is alleged to have struck him over the head and to have also knocked down Mrs. Goodman, when she went to her husband's aid.

'SWEET SEVENTEEN' PROVES BIG TREAT AT LYRIC THEATER

In one of those semi-serious zephyr-like affairs that so becomes them and their associates, Edith King and Wilfred Lytle, seconded by the capable of the Lyric players, got away to an exceptionally successful Monday night opening in "Sweet Seventeen."

In addition to the main love story which was to be there for the capable principals, Miss King and Gus Forbes furnished that old, but ever-delightful, story of the affection of the father and youngest daughter—balanced, as these things always are, by an elder daughter and a mother whose ideas of economy are as vague as their social ambitions are pronounced.

In its entirety "Sweet Seventeen" was excellently presented, Miss King being cast as a very lovable and very charming person still condemned to wear the "misses' sizes" they tell about in mail order catalogs, had a very vivacious evening of it, as was befitting, and was as delightful as the playwright intended she should be.

Mr. Lytle, handsome and debonair as his wont, was all that could be asked in the role of Mr. Beauchamp, Bernard, in her worldly-wise, but harmless role. Excellent, too, was Marion White as the older daughter, the one for whose wedding ceremony Miss King was forced to quit, ere she could start the "stepping out" process.

Gus Forbes, the old reliable, gave his usual pleasing performance, and Rankin Mansfield and William Lloyd added the proper balance of juvenile success and comedy.

"Sweet Seventeen" takes its place as another good choice for the Lyric players—something with which they can continue their habit of offering Atlanta theatergoers something worth while as the weeks go by.

BIG ELECTRICAL POOL PAN FOR NORTHEAST

Washington, July 28.—Principles for the creation of a vast reservoir of electrical energy through interconnection of power centers in the northern section of the United States are laid down in the report of the engineering sub-committee of the northeastern power committee, of which Secretary Hoover is the chairman.

The sub-committee's recommendations, published today, emphasize construction and development of steam and hydro-electric resources in the New England and middle Atlantic area on a basis of probable requirements in 1930, when it is estimated that part of the country will need 30,000,000 kilowatt hours, as compared with the 1922 production of 21,200,000,000 kilowatt hours.

Although maximum water-power development in the section can produce only 25 per cent of the necessary energy, says the report, establishment of the system proposed would reduce coal consumption 50,000,000 tons annually. Other advantages include greater economies in production, stabilization of supplies and credit, extension of power to farms and a lightning of labor requirements upon men.

The only reason everyone did not arise last night at the Howard theater, where "Monsieur Beaucaire," starring Rudolph Valentino, was having its initial showing, and sing "Hail, the Conquering Hero Comes," was because first lady-in-waiting Mrs. Valentino was held spellbound by the grandeur of the production. Costumes, settings and locations are the ravishers. Given an opportunity to display his real dramatic ability, Valentino presents a most vivid and impressive performance.

"Sweet Seventeen" takes its place as another good choice for the Lyric players—something with which they can continue their habit of offering Atlanta theatergoers something worth while as the weeks go by.

ELBERTA SHIPMENTS SWELL GEORGIA TOTAL

Macon, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—Indications today were that the heavy movement of Elberta peaches is to continue through this week, at least. At noon today there were 609 cars in the field loading, while complete reports from Saturday showed that 431 cars moved from Georgia on that day.

Many cars are still rolling out of Macon, and the market is holding firmly. Prices on Elberta are proving better than on any variety this season and growers are large acreages expect to reduce their loss on the season.

Elberta were selling locally at from $1.15 to $1.35 per crate, in New York, where 112 cars arrived, Belies were reported selling at from $1.75 to $2.25, depending on size and quality.

The season's total has already reached 10,824 cars or 300 cars more than for 1921.

Charles Jones, as the hero, is the typical clean-minded, hard-fighting gunner, but he is the equal of a circus star as trick rider, gunner and rope thrower.

Butts County ships first car pimientos.

Jackson, Ga., July 28.—(Special.)—The first car of green pimientos of the 1922 season was shipped from Jackson the past week, having been consigned to eastern markets. Previous to that time there have been express shipments of the fruit.

Exporters of Butts county contracted to grow 1,000 acres of pimientos will begin operation early in August. The crop is doing well and the outlook is for a large yield.

Peppers have proved a good cash crop for the farmers of the county.

Anyone who questions that men are but children of a larger growth should observe them at a picnic.—Pittsburgh Post.

Commuters' Bar, Now Tiled White, To Be Cafeteria

New York, July 28.—The Hotel Belmont bar, after gasping through five years of soft drinks and prohibition, is giving up. The Honduras mahogany is to give way to cafeteria white tile.

When the mind goes back to the early afternoons of the "good old days" it naturally focuses on the Belmont, the last chance of the commuters.

Just across from the Grand Central station, the Belmont has a reputation for the bar. A built up of supermen in immaculate white tiled to and fro being.

There were new drinks were concocted and treated to perfection. The Belmont bar was the home of such favorites as pineapple punch, New Orleans, Tom Collins, sherry flip and the doctor.

At 4 o'clock the commuters piled up six and seven deep in front of the brass rail.

Some prohibition and an attempt was made to keep the bar going. The old bartenders were kept in place to tempt the customers with simple syrups and fruit juices.

Prohibition has told its tale. The Belmont could not compete with "speak easies" which served liquid dynamite at 25 cents an explosion.

The commuters didn't need a shot of "strawberry soda" before going home to the wife.

When the old bar and brass rail are gone and the new establishment is set up the commuters will be able to get a ham sandwich and cup of coffee on the run.

High-Priced Cotton Year At Hand, Says Theo. Price

BY THEO. H. PRICE, Editor Commerce and Finance.

New York, July 28.—It is difficult to write anything worth while about cotton and grain markets as we had last week. The advertiser in either must have found it difficult to navigate the turbulent sea of speculation that he encountered.

In so far as cotton is concerned, the world is practically denuded of it and the business is limited to those who are willing to sell short or go long of a crop that is still unmade.

The government report issued last Monday, vividly assailed as too low, but it had its own merits, and the textile industry is again in fear of a famine crop. If this fear shall be justified by the event the capital invested in cotton spindles and looms will be made unproductive and almost valueless for a time as it seems idle to hope that the deficiency in the American supply of raw cotton can be made up by other countries.

It is possible that in the course of such new cotton producing territory of importance may be developed, but it is plain that it will be slow work and meantime the world's population and need of textile material are increasing.

How is this need to be satisfied? It was long ago remarked that "necessity is the mother of invention" and the news of the week suggests that it may not be long before the predicament of the textile industry of cotton goods left over from this crop will be disposed of and that the dry goods market will shortly be as bare of unsold cotton goods as is the cotton market of unsold raw cotton.

Those who have any use for cotton fabrics are therefore advised to buy without further delay.

The situation in old crop supplies has become acute. All the oil available undoubtedly will be consumed before the new crop has commenced to move. Lard is strong, principally due to speculative buying in sympathy with the advance in grains. Cotton oil options are naturally following the cotton goods market.

At present levels is not considered advisable.

When crushing becomes active next fall the market is likely to have a declining tendency, similar to that of last year. While new crop options are at a considerable discount, they are not warranted except to cover commitments in view. Present prospects are for ample supplies when new crop oil starts to move.

Nashville-to-Chicago Air Mail Route Test Made Today by Plane

Nashville, Tenn., July 28.—An experimental airplane mail flight from Nashville to Chicago to demonstrate the possibility of regular service between the two cities will take off from Blackford field tomorrow morning at 4 o'clock in charge of Lieutenant Vincent J. Meloy and Captain Robert J. Fox.

Authorization for the flight was received from the postoffice department this morning. The plane is scheduled to arrive in Chicago at 8:30 p.m.

If the flight is a success, Postmaster C. Calhoun, of Nashville, said today, measures will be taken to establish a regular daily service between Nashville and Chicago.

Lieutenants Meloy and Fox were sworn into the postal service this morning. The flight is being made in preparation for the flight tomorrow morning.

If the service is established, Postmaster C. Calhoun, according to reports of eight cents will be established for air mail letters from Nashville to Chicago.

The government for the service was started by J. B. McNamara, district manager of the federal reserve bank, with the object in view of saving a large sum of money in clearing between the two cities.

CANNOT BUY TICKET AND REMAIN DEMOCRAT

Winchester, Va., July 28.—A democrat "cannot vote for La Follette and remain a democrat," with the right to vote in Virginia democratic primaries, Harry Flood Byrd, chairman of the state committee, said today.

The chairman of the meetings announced that they had worked out a "labeling" which would prevent a party standing of both democrats and republicans voting for La Follette and still give them the right to vote in their respective party primaries," said Chairman Byrd.

This is so obviously a counsel of despatch that it should not go unrebuked. Democracy is a label which can be slipped off and on according to the whim of the voter.

New York, July 28.—With cotton virtually at the 30-cent level today there was a pronounced disposition to take profit. Many of the big traders who have been buying the market for a week or more, with 30 cents in view, were leaders in the selling movement. As a result the market was very irregular throughout the day and closed 15 points higher at 35 cents net lower.

The market opened at a net advance of 29 to 30 points. There was support from Wall Street, the west and Liverpool based on continued dry weather in the southwest and a strong Liverpool market. Eventually the demand ran up to 20.50 and December to 20.10, at which level the market was 62 to 65 points higher than Saturday's close. December and later months recorded new high prices for the present movement. To sell, however, more disposition to sell, however, than has been seen in some time past, at midday, when private predictions were received from New Orleans to the effect that rain in Texas and elsewhere would be a relief.

Exports, 6,007, making 5,577,915 so far this season. Port receipts 5,468, U. S. port stocks, 235,875.

WIDE CHANGES AT NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, July 28.—The cotton market was again active today and fluctuations frequent and wide. New high records for the present movement were made in the early trading, but the advance did not last. The market opened 11 to 15 points higher on good Liverpool cables and absence of rain in the belt over Sunday. October advanced to 29.25 in the first half hour of trading and December to 28.95 or 73 to 74 points above the previous close. Prices eased off later in the morning and realizing and selling on private reports of rain in Texas, October 28.25, or 76 to 77 points above the early highs and 3 to 5 points below the previous close. The market then moved 40 points from the lows in the afternoon, but eased again in the final trading on private reports of good prospects for rain in west Texas. The close showed net gains of 24 to 26 points.

Test Farm Shows Hancock Is Suited To Tobacco Raising

Sparta, Ga., July 28.—(Special).—Tobacco raising in Hancock county is practical as well as profitable, according to tests made of a plot of 25 acres on the David Dickson farm near Sparta, Ga., of this county, which are convinced that the "weed" can be grown here as well as in any part of Georgia.

The work of cutting on this farm began this morning and the six big curing houses, already completed, will be filled and curing started at once. The cultivation of this tobacco plot has been under the direction of an expert from the tobacco-growing section of North Carolina and he expresses himself as being highly pleased with the outlook for a splendid yield. The tobacco, when cured, will be of the highest grade bright cigarette quality as the lands here are especially adapted to the culture of this variety. Farm is now owned by the Jefferson Standard Life Insurance company, manager of the management of R. S. Dennis, and it is understood that they will put in several hundred acres of tobacco next year. Farmers will follow their lead since they are now see the results of this test plot.
